Wear

#lotsofsocks

The date signifies the 3
copies of chromosome 21 that all people with Down's Syndrome have.

to help spread awareness for World Down's Syndrome Day!

When our chromosomes are lined up they look like lots of socks hanging on a washing line. People with Down's Syndrome have one extra copy of chromosome 21.

We would like you to come into school wearing colourful odd socks.

Why?

Well it doesn't matter what the socks look like - they are both socks. Just like people with Down's Syndrome and people without, sure there are some differences but ultimately we are all the same - all human.

Wear them over your tights, tuck your trousers into them – make them stand out and let's celebrate the differences of the children that make up our school.

If you feel able, please bring a £1 donation which will go to 21&Co, a local parent run charity which looks after and provides services to 200 families with children with Down's Syndrome in Surrey and SW London.
